Temple University, Japan Campus (TUJ) offers you the opportunity to study abroad in Tokyo for a semester, summer, or full academic year. At TUJ, you will study alongside degree-seeking Japanese students, who comprise 30 percent of undergraduates, as well as international students from countries all around the world. With such a diverse student body, you can expect a dynamic exchange of ideas and perspectives on current global issues, international relations, and aspects of traditional and popular culture. Outside of the classroom, we hope that you will continue this exchange by participating in the many social activities organized each semester. We also hope that you will take advantage of the full schedule of outings, events and workshops that expose you to new locations and various aspects of life in Tokyo and throughout Japan.

Through this brochure, we aim to provide an overview of the program offerings, site and staff. More detailed information, as well as program updates, are available on our website, and we encourage you to contact our Education Abroad advisors with any questions.
WHY TOKYO?

Tokyo is:

- A city at the forefront of innovation, a cosmopolitan capital rich with ancient customs that still continue to shape daily Japanese life
- A city with an incredible level of energy and vitality
- A city made up of many centers, each with its own special character
- A city overflowing with unique art, theater, dining, and popular culture

You could spend a lifetime exploring Tokyo and never see it all.

ABOUT TEMPLE UNIVERSITY, JAPAN CAMPUS (TUJ)

- Founded in 1982, TUJ is the oldest and largest foreign university in Japan and is recognized by Japan's Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology
- Enrollment is approximately 4,000 students per year (700 degree-seeking undergraduates; about 60 study abroad undergraduates per semester; 320 graduate students; 3,000 in English preparation, continuing education or corporate education programs)
- About 30% of undergraduate students are Japanese; the remaining 70% come from countries around the world
- 180 faculty members from Japan, the U.S. and other countries around the world
- Undergraduate degrees with majors in art, Asian studies, communication studies, economics, general studies, international affairs, international business studies, Japanese language, political science and psychological studies
- At the graduate level, TUJ offers an MBA, master's and doctoral programs in education, and a Master of Laws
- Home to the Institute of Contemporary Asian Studies, which sponsors special programs devoted to Asian contemporary culture and language, a lecture series, and an academic journal
After you've visited all of the well-known sites, it will be time to really explore Tokyo. You will have fun meandering down side streets, finding the quirky shops, hole-in-the-wall restaurants, and peaceful parks that tourists never see. With all that Tokyo has to offer, it's easy to create an experience that is uniquely yours.

PICTURE YOURSELF...

...living in Tokyo and being at the center of innovations in technology, business, fashion and entertainment.

...experiencing a modern culture infused with traditions centuries-old.

...trying local foods served in a Japanese bento box while hiking to Mount Takao.

...learning traditional Japanese arts, such as calligraphy, during one of TUJ's workshops.
MEET THE TUJ ADMINISTRATION AND STAFF

Academic and administrative responsibility for Temple University, Japan Campus rests with the dean of TUJ, senior administration and an advisory board made up of Japanese and non-Japanese government, business and education leaders. As a branch campus of Temple University, TUJ is under the authority of university academic administration, including the provost and president. Listed below are administration and staff that work closely with study abroad students at TUJ, as well as with the Education Abroad staff on main campus.

Office of Student Services

Having studied abroad in Japan as an undergraduate, Nicole (pictured below, right) knows the excitement of the journey you are about to embark upon. Nicole has lived in Japan close to twenty years and can share many experiences with you as a foreigner living in Japan. Nicole is the manager of the Office of Student Services and is also the coordinator for TUJ’s Homestay Program. Nicole looks forward to meeting you during on-site orientation and getting to know you throughout your time in Japan.

TUJ is located within two buildings in the Minami Azabu and Mita districts in central Tokyo and is surrounded by several embassies, international companies, and two major universities. Occupying several floors of each building, TUJ provides a comfortable yet lively atmosphere, where you can expect to see the familiar faces of faculty, staff and fellow students on a regular basis.

Facilities include classroom space, art studios, computer labs and a wireless network, student lounges, a library, a career center, a teaching and learning center, and administrative offices. On the first floor, you will find the Office of Student Services (OSS). As the office responsible for non-academic programming and support, OSS will likely serve as your home base during your time at TUJ.

TUJ is easy to reach using Tokyo’s famous public transportation system and is within walking distance of several subway and train stations. You will find the location convenient for grabbing lunch at one of the many Japanese or international eateries, or a well-stocked convenience store, and for exploring Tokyo after class. You may hop on the train for a quick ride to Shibuya, a vibrant area popular with young adults, or head to the Imperial Palace (home to the emperor), the Diet Building (Japanese Legislature), or the shopping districts of Ginza and Shinjuku, all of which are less than three miles from campus.

Housing locations allow you to experience life outside of central Tokyo. TUJ uses two main student residence halls in neighborhoods approximately 45-50 minutes from TUJ by public transportation. If you plan to live in a homestay, your commute will be longer and similar to that of most local students – typically one to two hours each way. As few Japanese students at TUJ live in central Tokyo, your commute to campus will be an authentic experience.

The following recommended academic program serves as a foundation for your experience in Japan. If you have any questions about the academic program at TUJ, or would like to request syllabi for courses, please contact us.

Fall and Spring Semesters

TUJ offers a variety of disciplines, allowing study abroad students to immerse themselves in Japanese language and Asian studies while completing other degree requirements abroad. As a study abroad student, you are strongly encouraged to enroll in a Japanese studies foundation course and a Japanese language course in addition to any other requirements you need to fulfill while abroad, for a total of 15-17 credit hours.

- Some of the Japanese studies foundation courses that have been offered include:
  - Asian Studies/Anthropology 2373: Japanese Culture
  - Asian Studies/History 2502: Introduction to East Asia: Japan
  - Asian Studies/Art History 2815: Japanese Art
  - Asian Studies/History 3541: Japan Today

- Japanese language courses are offered from beginning to advanced.
  - If you have had no prior Japanese language, plan to enroll in Japanese 1001: Japanese Elements I.
  - If you have already studied Japanese, you may continue at the intermediate or advanced level. You will take a Japanese placement test upon arrival to confirm your language level.

- Additional courses are offered in a broad range of disciplines. When possible, we recommend enrolling in upper-level courses (numbered 2000 or above).

- Credit-bearing internships are also offered (see page 13 for more information).

Summer Semester

Summer semester students enroll in 9-13 credits. The recommended academic program for all summer semester participants includes:

- One Japanese language course
  - Japanese language courses are offered from beginning to advanced.
- If you have had no prior Japanese language, plan to enroll in Japanese 1001: Japanese Elements I.
- If you have already studied Japanese, you may continue at the intermediate or advanced level. You will take a Japanese placement test upon arrival to confirm your language level.
- One course that has a Japanese or Asian focus
- One to two courses from a broad range of offerings across several disciplines. When possible, we recommend enrolling in upper-level courses (numbered 2000 or above).
- Credit-bearing internships are also offered (see page 13 for more information).
The following list includes courses that are popular amongst study abroad students and represents 22 of the disciplines offered at TUJ. Here, courses are categorized into eight broad areas of study: architecture; art and art history; Asian studies and liberal arts; communication studies; international affairs and political science; international business studies and economics; Japanese language, and psychology. Course descriptions and prerequisites are available online.

Course offerings vary from year to year. The final course schedule is determined the semester before enrollment and is made available to participating students following program acceptance. You may access current and past course schedules from our website.

ARCHITECTURE

TUJ offers a specialized architecture program in select semesters. See page 12 for details.

Architecture 3233/8233 | Architecture Design Studio in Tokyo (6 credits) spring only
Architecture 3242/8242 | Urban Seminar in Japan (3 credits) spring only

ART AND ART HISTORY

TUJ's art major is offered under the auspices of the world-renowned Tyler School of Art at Temple’s main campus, with Tokyo providing a unique backdrop for all creative students. The art program offers a strong focus in visual art practice within a liberal arts context. Students pursue a variety of projects designed to help them explore the boundaries between technology and studio practice through both digital and non-digital art courses. Asian art history courses complement the program.

Non-Temple students who wish to enroll in art courses with pre-requisites are asked to submit a portfolio at the time of application. Specific course pre-requisites and details regarding the portfolio are available online.

Art 1101 | Introduction to Visual Language: Painting (3 credits)
Art 1201 | Introduction to Visual Language: 3-D Design (3 credits)
Art 1401 | Introduction to Visual Language: Drawing (3 credits)
ASIAN STUDIES AND LIBERAL ARTS

With an emphasis on East and Southeast Asia, the Asian studies department provides students with an in-depth understanding of the region’s past, present, and future—from art, literature, and religion to politics, business, and diplomacy. The courses provide a great opportunity for majors and non-majors alike to contextualize their experience. Students also enjoy access to the special programs of TUJ’s Institute of Contemporary Asian Studies.

Many of the Asian studies courses offered are of an interdisciplinary nature and are cross-listed with other areas including American studies, anthropology, art history, history, Japanese, political science, sociology and psychology.

COMMUNICATION STUDIES

Communication studies surveys various departmental subjects such as mass media, public relations, advertising, film and media arts, and journalism. Offerings include foundational courses, as well as theory and production courses. The TUJ internship program includes numerous opportunities in the communications field; students often intern at PR agencies, TV and radio stations, and production companies.

Many communication studies courses assume you have at minimum an introductory-level background in the area of study. Specific prerequisites are included with each description online.
Production Track

Film and Media Arts 1141 | Media Arts I (4 credits) fall only
Film and Media Arts 1142 | Media Arts II (4 credits) spring only

International Business Studies 3501 | Marketing in a Global Environment (3 credits)
Marketing 2101 | Marketing Management (3 credits)

Related Offering
Asian Studies 2511 | Introduction to Asian Business (3 credits)
JAPANESE LANGUAGE

The Japanese language program aims to provide students with proficiency in the areas of grammar, listening, speaking, and writing. Courses are offered for beginning to advanced students, as well as for native speakers; oral intensive courses are popular, particularly among study abroad students. We encourage you to begin or continue language study while in Japan. If you have not completed at least one semester of college-level Japanese, you may enroll in Japanese 1001: Japanese Elements I. If you have already studied Japanese, you may continue language study during your semester abroad. A Japanese placement test is administered upon arrival to confirm your language level.

Japan possesses one of the most exciting architectural landscapes in the world, encompassing exquisite wooden temples, minuscule micro-houses and futuristic skyscrapers on seismic fault lines. Yet Japan is also facing unprecedented architectural challenges such as the rebuilding of Tohoku, rapidly changing demographics, global economic uncertainty and ever-increasing issues related to the environment and sustainability. What Japan does next in terms of the built environment and urban planning will be watched by architects worldwide.

TUJ offers an architecture program as part of the spring semester study abroad program. The undergraduate program is designed for students majoring in architecture, architectural studies, facilities management, landscape architecture, and urban design/studies. Graduate students are welcome; interested graduate students should consult with Education Abroad.

Key Features
- Designed to open up the world of Japanese architecture – its history, traditions and influences as well as its highly unique contemporary forms, challenges, practices and innovations – to students.
- As a participant, you will gain an understanding of the history and sources of Japanese architecture and urbanism and become conversant in contemporary thought and practice in Japanese architecture and urban planning.
- You will choose your other courses from the broad range of TUJ’s offerings in various disciplines; Japanese language and Asian studies are recommended.

Architecture Application Notes
- Undergraduate applicants must have completed a minimum of 20 semester hours, or the equivalent, of studio courses. Graduate students must be enrolled in a graduate-level architecture professional degree program.
- Students who wish to enroll in any architecture courses must apply to the architecture program.
- As part of the application, all applicants must submit a portfolio (details available online).
TUJ’s Career Development office coordinates a robust internship program, which provides students an invaluable opportunity to develop professional skills, gain international employment experience, network with field leaders and be immersed in Japanese culture. Many study abroad students take advantage of the internship program each semester.

- Internships are offered in the Tokyo area with Japanese multinational organizations, embassies, and NGOs.
- Interns work an average of 10-20 hours per week and earn three credits in one of the following departments: asian studies, economics, international affairs, liberal arts, media studies & production, political science, or psychological studies.
- A faculty supervisor at TUJ oversees the internship, sets evaluation requirements, and meets with students throughout the semester.
- While some internships do require Japanese language ability, every semester, a number of study abroad students without bilingual skills are successfully placed in appropriate internships.

Freeman Foundation East Asia Internship Scholarship
For the past three years, Temple University has received a grant from the Freeman Foundation, which has enabled us to award additional scholarship funding to select study abroad students participating in a TUJ internship. Scholarships have been awarded in amounts up to $4,000 for fall or spring students and up to $5,000 for summer students.

In addition to their scholarship funding, Freeman Scholars are matched with a professional mentor in Tokyo that they may meet with throughout the semester. The mentor provides guidance on life in Tokyo, the Japanese professional culture, as well as general career advice.

For more details about the Freeman Scholarship, please visit our website.

More than 70 organizations and institutions currently participate in the TUJ internship program. They include:

- Adecco
- AIG
- AOI Pro
- Audi Japan
- BCBG Maxazria
- British Chamber of Commerce Japan
- Bosch Corporation
- Delta Air Lines
- Embassy of Greece
- Embassy of the United States

- Tokyo English Life Line

STUDENT PROFILE: JORDAN SIEVERS
Film and Media Arts major
Fall 2013 Freeman Scholar
Internship: Staff Writer at The Japan Times, Life and Culture Section

In Jordan’s words:
As a staff writer, I prepared short articles about artists, art gallery openings, and events in Tokyo for the paper and contributed weekly book reviews. Through this experience, I gained first-hand insight into the operations of a prominent international news organization and made invaluable professional connections. I dramatically improved my writing abilities and learned what it’s like to work in a Japanese business environment where it’s necessary to operate under strict deadlines and expectations.

Taking on an internship allowed me to experience life in Japan, not only as a student, but as a member of Japanese society. It can be easy to stay in the American bubble and live your life in Japan as more of an extended tourist rather than a citizen. Having an internship with significant responsibility provided an understanding of what living and working Japan is really like.

Without the Freeman Foundation’s generous scholarship, my time at TUJ would not have been possible. Not only did their support help fund my semester, but they also provided me with a valuable mentor who made sure I was well taken care of during my time abroad.

My future plans are to return to Japan as an English teacher. Ultimately, I hope to improve my Japanese fluency and eventually work in the Japanese television or entertainment marketing industry.
Excursions

To enhance understanding of Japanese culture, TUJ organizes optional outings, as well as day, overnight, and weekend excursions every semester.

- Field trips include outings to Japanese festivals, museums, sumo wrestling, soccer matches, baseball games, a Japanese high school, and theater performances.
- Day, overnight, and weekend trips allow you to experience the regional diversity of Japan. Destinations vary by semester, but have included places such as Kamakura, Yokohama, Kyoto, Nikko, Hakone, and Sapporo.
- You are responsible for the costs associated with travel, meals, and lodging, but every effort is made to ensure that these excursions are as affordable as possible.

Student Organizations

Becoming involved in TUJ’s student clubs is an excellent way to make Japanese and international friends.

- Active student clubs vary by semester and have included futsal, basketball, videogaming, and more!
- TUJ’s student lounge is an exciting space where students often socialize, and is also home to the student government.
Cultural Activities
Social mixer events at TUJ help to facilitate social interaction, as well as language and cultural exchanges between Japanese students and international students. TUJ also offers a Language Partner Program that pairs students interested in language exchange to meet up on a regular, voluntary basis and practice English and Japanese. Through these opportunities you can meet new friends and interact socially while learning about other cultures.

TUJ also organizes special cultural workshops on traditional Japanese arts for students. Past workshops have introduced students to ikebana, calligraphy, tea ceremony, koto and archery.

Community Engagement
Become involved in the local community by volunteering in Tokyo. You may participate in a variety of volunteer activities organized through TUJ’s Community Relations Department in collaboration with Tokyo’s Minato Ward, the ward in which TUJ is located. Opportunities have included:

• assisting at city festivals
• participating at cultural exchange events for local children
• volunteering at an after-school program for elementary school children
• participating in neighborhood clean-up efforts
The ICAS coordinates TUJ’s intellectual and cultural research and outreach programs. Serving as a crossroads and forum for intellectual and cultural exchange, the ICAS hosts approximately 40 events per year which include discussions, seminars and film screenings, as well as larger conference events throughout the year. These events, which bring together individuals working in diverse areas of academia, business and government, are open to students and usually free of charge.

FACULTY SPOTLIGHT: MARIKO NAGAI

Professor Mariko Nagai, Director of Research and Study Abroad Academic Coordinator, teaches Japanese literature and creative writing courses at Temple University, Japan Campus. Born in Tokyo and raised in Europe and America, she has received fellowships from the Rockefeller Foundation Bellagio Center, UNESCO-Aschberg Bursaries for the Arts, Akademie Schloss Solitude, among others and has won the prestigious Pushcart Prizes for both poetry and fiction. Based on extensive research and field work, her creative works often explore the idea of nationality, displacement, nature of language, diaspora, and what it means to be a being in history. She has recently published creative works on a biography of her grandfather who died in Papua New Guinea in World War II; karayuki-san, a group of 19th and early 20th century Japanese prostitutes who worked in the U.S., Southeast Asia, and Russia; photo-text works on the social and geographical effects of atomic bombs in Hiroshima and Nagasaki; and stories based on the Occupation of Japan. She is also working on translation of haiku by Shizuko Suzuki, a poet who appeared and disappeared during the Occupied Japan Era (1945-1952) and has been virtually forgotten by the reading public. Mariko Nagai is the author of Histories of Bodies: Poems (2007), Georigc: Stories (2010), Instructions for the Living (2012), Dust of Eden: A Novel (2014) and The Promised Land: A Novel (forthcoming from Aqueous Press, 2018).

Pre-departure Preparations
Once accepted, we provide you with detailed online materials designed to guide you in preparing for your time in Japan. Pre-departure materials include:

- Course registration materials
- Passport information and visa application instructions
- Travel and arrival information
- Health insurance information
- Health and safety information
- Housing information
- Billing information with confirmed tuition, program fees, and payment policies
- Cultural information

Pre-departure Orientation
A pre-departure orientation program is conducted in Philadelphia by program administrators and former TUJ study abroad students. An online version of the orientation is available for students who do not live in the Philadelphia area.

On-site Orientation
Upon arrival in Tokyo, you will participate in an orientation program designed to introduce you to TUJ, Tokyo and Japan. The on-site orientation includes:

- Introductions to the faculty, staff and resources at TUJ
- Cultural session about living in Tokyo
- Health and safety presentation
- Residence hall neighborhood tour
- Campus tour
- Post-arrival visa-related procedures
- Social outing
- Homestay orientation (if applicable)

Housing Options and Placement
You may choose to live in a residence hall or you may choose our homestay option. Although most students take advantage of program-arranged housing, you are also permitted to make your own housing arrangements. Visit our website for more information about housing.

Housing in Tokyo is guaranteed for all program participants who submit the housing form and a $200 non-refundable housing deposit. More details are provided upon acceptance to the program.
Passports and Visas
Since a visa is required for semester study in Japan, and optional for the summer semester, we provide detailed visa application instructions once you are accepted and assist with the visa application process. To apply for a visa, you will have to submit your passport as well as supporting documents soon after the program application deadline, so be sure to have a passport that is valid for a minimum of six months up to a year beyond the end of your stay in Japan (this varies depending on the consulate to which you will apply for your visa). For more information about obtaining or renewing a U.S. passport, please visit: travel.state.gov/passport/.

Health Insurance
All program participants will have international health insurance coverage through HTH Worldwide. Education Abroad will obtain the insurance on your behalf, and the cost will appear on your program bill. While all program participants will have coverage from HTH Worldwide, be sure to maintain your U.S. health insurance coverage for your time abroad. Foreigners studying in Japan on a student visa are also required to purchase Japanese national health insurance. More detailed insurance information is provided to accepted students.

Emergency Services
In the event of an emergency overseas, all students on a Temple University study abroad program also have access to 24-hour assistance through International SOS. International SOS helps students with travel and security information when away from home.

Program and Housing Deposits
Upon acceptance to the TUJ study abroad program, a $200 non-refundable program deposit will be due within two weeks to confirm your participation. If you choose Temple-arranged housing, a $200 non-refundable housing deposit will be required by the deadline set for your semester. Both deposits will be credited to your account.

Cost of Attendance
You will be billed regular Temple University tuition based on residency and program, plus fees to cover housing (and some meals for homestay students), orientation programming, university services, and health insurance. Additional costs, such as studio/lab fees may apply. You will not be billed for meals (except for homestay students), books, supplies, airfare, or personal expenses. For detailed cost information, visit our website.

Financial Aid
Temple Students
Temple University students are eligible to apply for financial assistance through regular university procedures. Most forms of Temple University financial aid, veterans’ benefits, and awards from government and private sources are applicable to study at TUJ.

Non-Temple Students
Students from other institutions should first consult with financial aid officers and study abroad advisors on their own campuses to find out which sources of aid are available to them and must apply for financial aid through their own institutions. Federal awards and a number of state awards are transferable to Temple with approval of your home institution.

Scholarships
Education Abroad Scholarships
Scholarships for Temple students range from $1,000 to $3,000 and are awarded on the basis of academic merit and financial need. A limited number of $1,000 scholarships are available to qualified non-Temple students for fall and spring semester study. Visit our website for scholarship eligibility requirements and application procedures.

Freeman Foundation East Asia Internship Program Scholarships
Thanks to the generosity of the Freeman Foundation, we are able to award additional scholarship funding to select study abroad students participating in a TUJ internship. Scholarships have been awarded in amounts up to $4,000 for fall and spring semester students, and up to $5,000 for summer students. For more information, including eligibility requirements, visit our website.

There are additional sources of funding for study in Asia for which students attending TUJ may apply, including:

- Boren Scholarships
  www.borenawards.org
- Bridging Scholarships for Study in Japan through the Association of Teachers of Japanese www.aatj.org/studyabroad/scholarships
- Gilman Scholarships
  www.iie.org/gilmanscholarships
- Foundation for Global Scholars
  www.foundationforglobalscholars.org

Additional Scholarship Information
For more detailed information about these and other funding sources, visit the Scholarships section of the Education Abroad website at studyabroad.temple.edu/scholarships. Please be aware that the awarding of a scholarship may have an impact on the financial aid awarded to you by your institution. Please contact your financial aid office if you have any questions about this.

PROGRAM ELIGIBILITY

The TUJ program is open to qualified students matriculated at any U.S. college or university.

Eligibility is limited to those students who:

• are currently enrolled as full-time, matriculated undergraduate students at a U.S. institution and will have completed at least two semesters of college-level study.

• have a satisfactory scholastic average (For the fall/spring semester program, a minimum 2.75 cumulative GPA on a 4.0 scale from all colleges and universities attended. For the summer semester program, a minimum 2.5 cumulative GPA on a 4.0 scale from all colleges and universities attended).

• will undertake a full-time program of study at Temple University, Japan Campus and will be applying credits earned toward a degree.

• are in good academic and disciplinary standing; students on academic or disciplinary probation or warning are ineligible to participate. Students who have been found responsible for a code of conduct violation on more than one occasion will be subject to additional review and may not be eligible to participate.

Students will be selected mainly on the basis of their intellectual purpose and emotional maturity.
APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS and PROCEDURES

Before Beginning an Application
Please review all program-specific information online, including eligibility, before beginning an application. All applicants are advised to discuss their plans to study abroad with their academic advisor. Non-Temple students should confirm study abroad procedures with their home institution before beginning an application.

Application
Visit our website, studyabroad.temple.edu, and click on “Apply” to begin your application.

Submissions
Please note that the following submissions will be required. If you are applying online, all application requirements will appear within the online application system.

Submissions for All Applicants:
• One academic recommendation from a faculty member who has taught you in class

Additional Submissions for Non-Temple Students (all programs):
• Official transcripts from all colleges/universities attended to date
• Home College/University Approval Form indicating you have received approval from your home institution to study at TUJ
• Signature Verification Form
• For students who wish to enroll in art courses with prerequisites: portfolio (see our website for details)

Additional Submissions for the Specialized Architecture Program:
• Portfolio (see our website for details)

Further details about application procedures are available on our website. If you have any questions or technical problems with the online application system, please e-mail study.abroad@temple.edu or call toll-free: 877-256-6913.

Note: If you are a student interested in pursuing a degree at TUJ, you should apply directly through TUJ (not Temple University Education Abroad). For more information, please visit the Admissions section of www.tuj.ac.jp.

Temple University has a long history of commitment to international education and to study abroad in particular. We created our first program in Paris in 1950, a summer program that is still active today. Our Temple Rome program, founded in 1966, has developed into a vibrant study abroad center hosting over 500 students per year for semester and summer programs. Another major milestone was the establishment of Temple University Japan in 1982, what is today a thriving branch campus with both undergraduate and graduate level programs. Throughout the years, Temple has encouraged faculty to develop and lead programs around the world to provide additional opportunities for students; many of our dedicated faculty have continued their programs year after year.

We in Temple Education Abroad are proud to carry out Temple’s commitment to study abroad by continually developing and strengthening study abroad programming not only for Temple students but for the hundreds of students from other U.S. colleges and universities who participate in our programs each year. Our office currently administers programs in Brazil, France, Germany, India, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Spain and the United Kingdom, and exchanges worldwide.

We take pride in providing quality advising, thorough pre-departure preparation, and timely, individualized support for students as they prepare to go abroad. As a public institution, we are committed to keeping our programs as cost-effective as possible while maintaining high standards for academics and cultural integration, and student safety, health and support. We are able to achieve this by drawing upon our many resources abroad as well as those of Temple University’s Main Campus.

Thank you for your interest in our programs, and we look forward to working with you.

Temple University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all in every aspect of its operation. The university has pledged not to discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, disability, marital status or veteran status. This policy extends to all educational, service, and employment programs of the university.

The Office of Institutional Diversity, Equity, Advocacy and Leadership at Temple has these inclusive objectives: To support the admission and successful participation of disadvantaged students, students with disabilities, and those for whom English is a second language. To employ and advance in employment qualified women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, Armed Forces service medal veterans, disabled veterans, recently separated veterans, and other protected veterans.

Temple University’s equal opportunity/affirmative action program complies with federal regulations such as: The Civil Rights Act of 1964, Executive Order 11246, the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act. For more information or to review Temple University’s Affirmative Action Program, contact Rhonda L. Brown, Associate Vice President for the Office of Institutional Diversity, Equity, Advocacy and Leadership, Main Campus, Mitten Hall. 215-204-7303 (TTY 215-204-6772).
